this CD is a perfect mystery, there is no label, or booklet, or number, but it is properly printed (not a CD Rom) in Canada. The recordings on it are not issued otherwise, I think, and the transfers are decently straightforward. Bryan Townsend writes of a CD presented to Paul Kling 'when he was awarded the Cross of Honour for Arts and Letters by the President of Austria', containing the same Beethoven concerto. Maybe someone in Canada copied that CD professionally but issued it in a rather non-com style. However, it's incredibly rare. 78.00 [500082]

Revelation RV 10053 A+/ eng/ T3+, a little dim perhaps from too much upper range (tape hiss) filtering, but not diggy yet and well adapting to the ear/ very interesting performance, the Russian brass making sure you are not too lazily listening to this. Rozhdestvensky has a laudable bias against too palpable tempo fluctuation. And he alerts the listener to Bruckner's love of the organ, more interested in contrasting than blending sounds, with distinct 'stops'. It sounds a lot more antiphonal than elsewhere and quite convincingly so. 12.80 [500243]
